There are many benefits to positive team communication. In sports, positive team communication can win a team the game. In business, effective communication can win the team big clients, new projects, promotions and success.

Definition

Positive communication exists when there are effective communication skills among team members. This means that the individuals on the team know how to speak and listen to one another in a way that produces positive results.

Considerations

Not all communication is good communication. It is not enough for teammates to just do a lot of talking. Teammates must actively listen, show respect and exhibit positive non-verbal communication (body language, eye contact) between one another.

Benefits

Positive team communication is priceless to employers, because it keeps teams on track with their work. The University of Wisconsin notes that effective team communication breeds more productive results and abets the accomplishment of projects.

Effects

Not only does positive communication help teams reach their targeted goals, it also has positive effects on how supervisors view the team. Bonuses and promotions can be desirable rewards for teams that exhibit positive communication.

Tips

To enhance communication, teams should make use of the virtual communication mediums, such as email, live chat software and teleconferencing and videoconferencing technologies. These options let teammates keep in touch around the clock and from anywhere in the world.
